Indochina Talks Today Cancelled

Experts Encounter Serious Problems

GENEVA (AP)—A scheduled meeting of Indochina experts was canceled today after the nine participating delegations decided they had run into problems which could be decided only by the top delegates.

The committee of experts met yesterday to try to disentangle the various conflicting and overlapping proposals now before the Indochina conference on cease-fire measures.

The conference itself was scheduled to hold another restricted session at 9 a.m. EST. There will be no further meetings of the experts unless the full conference directs them to take up some specific problem.

Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Gromyko snarled up yesterday's initial meeting of experts who are seeking to find out how much common ground there was in the Communist and non-Communist proposals.

Gromyko tossed in new demands aimed at forcing the conference to sanction Communist claims in Laos and Cambodia, the smaller of the three Associated Indochinese States.

The West has insisted the Communist-led Vietminh be allowed after the cease-fire to hold territory only in Viet Nam and that Red forces be evacuated entirely from the kingdoms of Laos and Cambodia.

Should the Communists persist in demands for "assembly zones" in all three states, observers predict the conference might founder next week. That is the period that both France's Foreign Minister Georges Bidault and Britain's Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden have predicted would be decisive.

The Communists and the West are agreed on the principle of the assembly zones into which the opposing armies would be withdrawn when the cease-fire is sounded. But there is basic disagreement over where and how these zones should be established.

Their task complicated by the dangerous cracks and crevasses which lace the south buttress of the 20,30-foot mountain and hindered by swirling snow, the rescue party searching for Pfc. George Argus called for a guide yesterday.

They asked for aid from Morton Wood, one of three survivors of a 1,000-foot fall which killed a man May 15 and critically injured Argus.

The 25-year-old soldier was left on the mountainside when Morton and Les Viereck, the third survivor, had to give up attempting to bring him down the tortuous slopes alone. They left Argus in a tent last Sunday after spending a week with him waiting for help that never came.

He was warmly wrapped, lying on an air mattress. But he had only enough food to carry him through this weekend and there was no way to mark conspicuously the tiny tent on a vast expanse of snow and rocks.

The rescuers spread out in three parties ranging from the 6,000 to the 7,500-foot level and still at least 3,000 feet below where Argus is believed to be lying.

Ohio Jury Convicts 3 On Contempt Charge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A jury deliberated 3½ hours here yesterday before convicting of contempt four persons who refused to answer questions before the Ohio Union-American Activities Commission.

It was the second round of trials here involving persons who took refuge in the Fifth Amendment to the U. S. Constitution during a commission investigation of alleged Communist activities.

Convicted were Vassel Thamel of Fort Wayne, Ind., found guilty on 25 counts, innocent on one. Harry McGill of Dayton, guilty on 49 counts; Melvin Hupman and his wife, Julia Pearl Hupman, both of Clarksville, Ohio, guilty on 46 and 40 counts, respectively. Mrs. Hupman was innocent on one count.

Common Pleas Judge Joseph M. Harter withheld imposition of fines while considering two defense motions. Defense Atty. J. Paul Prear of Dayton asked for a new trial and for a judgment of acquittal, despite the guilty verdict.

The convictions carry fines of $100 to $500 on each count.

Unable to obtain bond of $1,000 each immediately, the four were taken into custody by sheriff's deputies.

THE SALEM, OHIO, NEWS

Confident Living

By DR. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

There Are Hidden Powers Within You

Some time ago I saw something which made a lasting impression on me. I was scheduled to speak at a banquet in a large hotel ballroom. The program was an elaborate one and some musical numbers preceded my talk. First, there was an excellent vocalist and then a violinist played several enjoyable numbers.

Finally, he played a piece which the lady sitting next to me said was very difficult. Not knowing too much about music, I had to take her word for it, but it was confirmed by the audience, which burst into hearty applause as soon as he was finished.

As he was taking his bow, we saw a strange thing. Just behind him, a workman in overalls wandered out on the platform carrying a saw. The audience laughed, thinking there had been some mistake. The violinist turned, took the saw from the man, placed his bow to the smooth edge and began to play. The laughter continued for only a

INDEED, there must be hundreds of people in this world who have never gotten themselves out of low gear. They are still struggling, crawling along through life, getting more and more bitter and frustrated and discouraged because life is so hard for them. We do not minimize the fact that life is difficult, but I want to emphasize that there are amazing powers in each of us which can enable us to meet and overcome both our own weaknesses and the circumstances of life.

One of my favorite Scripture passages testifies to the existence of these powers. It is the twelfth verse of the first chapter of John:

"But as many as received Him, to them He gave power to become the sons of God." The meaning of this passage is quite simple: those who believe and practice spiritual living experience a release of hidden powers which enables them to have God-like attributes and new effectiveness in their own lives.

It is amazing what can come out of human beings when they get to know themselves. Hidden powers respond to the Master's touch.

THE THRESHOLD!

The Baccalaureate speaker was right. This was the threshold of life. Beyond today, spanning the years, were many paths each leading to a different goal. Someone in Bob Adams' position need only to choose his path.

Bob wasn't frightened. The choice would not be difficult. In fact, it had already been made.

Not that anyone had told Bob which profession to follow . . . which opportunity would be most rewarding. No! Those decisions were not yet final . . .

But one decision was final. He had made it some years before — on the day he had become a member of the Church.

Bob had decided to build his life on faith . . . on the principles the Church had instilled in his conscience . . . on the truth and the power and the love of JESUS CHRIST. Bob Adams had chosen HIS Path!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Sen. Mundt Called The Turn

Sen. Mundt, acting chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee, said at the outset of the hearings on charges exchanged between the Department of the Army and Sen. McCarthy and his staff that every member of the committee would be on trial.

The accuracy of his judgment was manifest during the few days while the committee gave the appearance of being in a mood to choke off the hearings. Disruptive as they have proved to be, they could not have been choked off without irreparable damage to public confidence.

Americans believe their public affairs are subject to unlimited review whenever trouble develops between their employees. They believe they should have free access to information about people who live off the public payroll and spend public money.

Something had gone woefully wrong between the Department of the Army and Sen. McCarthy and his staff. The people of the United States had a right to know the nature of the trouble. Having learned enough to be sure the trouble was not minor, they never would have stood for a suspension of the hearings.

The hearings will go on. The members of the Senate investigations subcommittee have been acquitted of the one charge that could have ruined their public careers — being parties to a conspiracy to keep the American people from learning what some of their employees were fighting about behind closed doors.

No Holiday For Them

If automobile traffic is saved from record-breaking violence during the long weekend holiday which marks the beginning of summer for most of us, two kinds of people will have earned the credit.

The first kind will be composed of all citizens who decided to spend the holiday weekend at home, adding nothing to the inevitable congestion which can be expected when there is a holiday.

The second kind will be composed of citizens who take care of the other citizens who chose to exercise the great American prerogative of getting out on the highways and celebrating the holiday by going somewhere.

They are policemen, highway patrolmen, ambulance drivers, doctors, nurses, garagemen and filling station operators and employees.

Policemen and patrolmen especially need a pat on the back, because their jobs are thankless. Worse than that, their jobs are resented by most of the people they find it necessary to advise and command in the interest of highway safety.

As a kind deed for the holiday weekend, try a friendly wave of the hand to a patrolman on the highway. Give a policeman a cigar. Tell someone who is trying to keep motorists from killing and maiming one another: "Keep up the good work Mac."

Who knows? You might restore some skeptic's faith in human nature. It is rumored that policemen and patrolmen never get it back after they have seen a fatal accident caused by someone's thoughtlessness.

Freedom Of The Mind

In special commencement exercises marking its 200th anniversary this June, Columbia University will bring into focus the theme it has chosen for a year-long celebration —

"Men's right to knowledge and the free use thereof."

Columbia University and all the other educational institutions of the United States, old and new, have had a profound effect on freedom of the mind, the indispensable ingredient of all freedom.

Critics who attack colleges and universities — and schools in general — for tolerating ideas odious to the critics have not faith in the role which free inquiry plays in a free society.

Men are not insulated against wrong ideas by being kept in ignorance about them. They are insulated by being permitted to know what is wrong about the ideas — by free inquiry — by their inalienable right to make a free choice of everything written and spoken.

There never will be a time when all the "wrong ideas" will have been forced out of circulation and all the "good ideas" will be established as Holy Writ. Ideas are not static. They are the currency of active minds. They gain value by their ability to withstand challenge and lose value when they cannot withstand challenge.

It is known that the earth is round because men who insisted on the right of free inquiry challenged the wrong idea that it was flat. Nuclear fission is possible because of a successful challenge of the wrong idea that the atom could not be split. Airplanes fly because men, withstood ridicule to believe objects heavier than the air they displaced could be made to stay aloft.

The nearest approach to perpetual motion is any school kid wearing out his shoes.

French Become Realistic Over Indochina

GENEVA

In Geneva they are talking about an armistice, but in Paris they are making military preparations for an intensified war in Indochina. Congress, in effect, would be asked to sustain the American warnings.

It is believed that American ground troops would not be sent into the Indochina war but that the aircraft carriers of the U.S. Navy, with their bombers, and the U.S. Air Force, with its variety of bombing planes, would be intensively used if Congress granted the necessary authority.

This means that a dangerous stage has been reached in the Indochina war and could involve at any moment a decision by the United States.

The facts are that the French have decided to send substantial reinforcements to Indochina. This means a considerable number of ground troops and a new commander. His identity is still a secret but, when announced, it should impress the Communists that the French mean business.

Supposing the Chinese Communists send some of their aviation into the fray, wouldn't that place the French troops in a precarious position? It is not realized in America, but 25 per cent of the commissioned officers and 40 per cent of the non-commissioned officers of the regular French army are now in Indochina and during the last seven years many of them have had more than one tour of duty there.

IT IS AN IMPORTANT part of the French army which is being risked in Indochina. Will America come in with its airpower if the Chinese do? This is the crucial question which the French are asking, and only Washington can give the answer.

It has been stated again and again by President Eisenhower that he would not use American armed forces in Indochina without authority of Congress, but if he waits until the Communist airpower has started to pound the reorganized French army to pieces, it will be too late. At any rate, that is the French official view.

Under these circumstances, there is some hope of an armistice being signed. If there were no military threat of retaliation, the Communist negotiators would talk on and on indefinitely here while their troops pressed the war in Indochina in the belief that, before the talks reach what would be the concluding stages of the negotiations, the military situation for the French would have deteriorated.

WORD RECEIVED in Geneva is that the French Cabinet in Paris, while instructing Foreign Minister Bidault to use every effort to get an armistice, has at the same time gone ahead with extensive military operations that are not being disclosed. But enough of these plans is being revealed to warn the Communists that there is no bluff involved.

The French say it is either a reasonable and honorable armistice or a prolongation of the war. The decisive moment when the situation here will crystallize is not many days off.

Commencement Address

By TRUMAN TWILL

Here it is, time for a commencement address, and nothing prepared yet. Fortunately, no one ever calls on us for a commencement address anyway.

If anyone ever did, we'd choose as our theme: Muddling Thought to Freedom.

We'd point out what it usually takes the sweet girl and boy graduates what we had told them, which was about the struggle that goes on endlessly to test whether or not men deserve to be free — whether any Nation dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal can long endure.

Then, having told them what we were going to tell them and what we had told them, we would sit down.

We'd point out that if it weren't this way no one would have a chance to show how much better he is at grappling with adversity than the next fellow. The only kind of a society in which everything can be planned and cut and dried in advance is the kind presided over by some Mister Big who finally goes and causes everybody to share in the consequences of his own stupidity.

We'd tell the boys and girls never to make the mistake of underestimating human cleverness, persistence and nastiness, or to make the equally great mistake of underestimating human intelligence, sweetness and good will. We'd tell them to size up the prospects to the best of their ability and proceed accordingly.

We'd tell them that what we intended to tell them was that they should be reconciled in advance to the kind of a world they would find when they barged into it — that it was the best of all possible worlds filled with the best of all possible people — and they should look forward to enjoying every minute of their continuing existence in it.

We'd tell them not to be scared by people who yelled at them and tried to bulldoze them into taking actions and attitudes not to their liking.

We'd tell them to be sure to read the first 10 amendments to the Constitution at least once a year and to apply the meaning of the amendments to their own affairs because in America the people are the sovereign power. We'd tell them about the Constitution, itself, being a reflection of the Christian principles which guided the lives of the Founding Fathers and never to forget that these principles have been and will continue to be the last best hope of mankind.

We'd speak a few words in behalf of patience, a few words in behalf of skepticism, say a little something in behalf of human dia-

Tale Of Two Cities

Careless Vacationers Invite Trouble

By J. EDGAR HOOVER

The automobile cruising so casually past the green lawns and pleasant residences yields no clue which might betray the occupation of its driver. Nor is there anything in the appearance of the driver which marks him as other than the ordinary motorist, possibly looking for an unfamiliar house number.

But this motorist is not without purpose. He is looking for certain significant items which to him assume the elements of an invitation. His alert gaze fixes suddenly on a new brick and stone structure. It is not the architecture which prompts his concentration; it is, rather the uncult lawn, the drawn blinds, garage doors swinging open, bottles of milk souring on the step, newspapers overflowing the mailbox.

This motorist has the invitation he was seeking. He jots down the house number and drives on. He will be back. He may bring a friend and while their acceptance of the invitation won't appear in the social columns it will be in the papers. For burglary — whatever the circumstance — is newsworthy.

We are entering the seasonal period when crimes of violence — criminal assaults and murders — reach their peak. Despite the fact that robbers and thieves prefer to operate during the darker months of October through December, they are a year-around threat to the householder. This is particularly true during vacation time.

THERE WERE 36,360 more burglaries in 1953 than in 1952. This is an 8.2 per cent increase. While burglaries occur more often in the winter months, it does not mean that they are practically nonexistent in summer vacation months. For example, the low month last year, June, had 35,407 burglaries, only 12,265 less than the high of 47,672 in December.

Now is a good time to remind ourselves that we need not issue an invitation to the burglar when we take a vacation trip. A few simple precautions will enable one to leave a "lived-in" look about

SIDE GLANCES

By Galbraith

DISCONTINUE your newspaper. Make certain that milk deliveries are halted. Close and lock the empty garage. Lock windows and doors but do not pull the window shades. Never leave notes to tradespeople on the porch.

Before departing on your vacation, make sure that any jewelry, silver, or other valuables are secured in a safe place. A vase, cupboard, or desk drawer is not safe. Along these lines it is well to note that almost 200,000 private residences were burglarized in 1953. Of the 479,120 burglaries last year, approximately 42 per cent were of homes.

You might leave a key in the custody of the neighbor or friend and ask him to check the interior of the house periodically. It is not too unusual to read in police files of families returning from an extended vacation to find not only their movable valuables stolen, but also the rugs and furniture. Such losses — "moving-van jobs" in police parlance — are often reported only when the owner returns home after an extended trip or vacation. Speed in reporting a crime to your police is the best method of assisting them in apprehending the thieves and recovering your property.

The key and inspection arrangement with your friend may mean much to you. In this connection, the majority of police, provided you notify them, will make a very thorough inspection of your premises. Modern police methods require a check of such premises during each shift (three times each day) with a written report to show that the inspection was made and the time it was made.

CHOOSE YOUR vacation spot with care and continue to exercise care in such matters as hitchhiker requests and chance acquaintanceships. The next time you pass up a hitchhiker and feel a twinge of guilt, reflect on the news articles you have read of the murders and robberies committed by them. Not all are criminals, by any stretch of the imagination. Possibly the contrary — but we owe ourselves and family a second thought before admitting unknown and unidentified individuals into our automobile.

Beware of walking on unfamiliar, poorly lit streets. Avoid displays of money in public places. Report the actions of persons behaving in a suspicious manner to the proper authorities.

Keep your room locked at whatever resort you choose for your vacation spot. Jewelry, clothing

Twinkle, Twinkle Little Proxy

It is no longer easy to stick people on quiz shows with the question: "Is a proxy a tropical songbird, a musical instrument or a first cousin to a pixie?" (We knew a fellow once who said it was a big movie theater in New York.) Up to a few months ago ignorance in the matter of proxies was pretty wide. We would have bet that only blank expressions would have come from a Groucho Marx contestant faced with the words "For $3,000 . . . and you've got thirty seconds . . . where are proxies found?" But today the mystery has been shattered, thanks to fights for control of railroads, woolen mills and other corporations, with this week's New York Central Battle for the Proxies, the fight of the year.

The proxy has leaped from the financial to the front pages of American newspapers. You can find it in the headlines with the triple army hatchet slaying, the playboy's marriages and the McCarthy hearings. (This week you were as apt to run into a proxy on page one as Zsa Zsa Gabor.) We have been getting proxies for years, always with the accompanying request to sign and send back by return mail.

Nothing the salaries, incentive payments, bonuses and fat pensions dished out by the corporation we have always longed to be a proxy rebel. Many a time we felt the urge to scrawl across the proxy some such messages as "Here's your old proxy as requested and I hope you choke. 'Love to all the other mice,' or 'Remember, I'm only half-hearted about sending this back.'

Frequently we tossed our proxy into the fire. This "What's the use?" attitude had become pretty general among small stockholders in big corporations. They signed on the dotted line in a "The directors know best" mood. The big corporations always felt that everything was in the bag and that there would be few hold-outs.

They threw an annual meeting, invited the shareholders over, passed out free sandwiches and pies and smiled tolerantly at anybody asking pointed questions.

But several battles, notably this week's war for control of New York Central, in which any little guy with a demitasse-sized proxy was sought, appealed to and buttered up, has made the country fairly proxy conscious. Big corporations have been watching this fight from the bleachers and are viewing it with alarm. It is perhaps not a good thing for business that control can be changed overnight in a game of "Proxy, proxy, who's got the proxies?" But it makes the shareholder feel important. He gets ideas. Suddenly he feels that a proxy is a little different from a gas ball or corn plaster. His new chant is:

I had a little proxy
Its size was fine by two;
But when the battle started
It GREW AND GREW AND GREW!

Would you call the complete transcript of the testimony in the Pentagon-McCarthy probe "The Book of the Mundt?"

The contention of Senate probers that the armed services are no speed marvels in clearing up matters is not exactly knocked in the head by two current incidents: (1) The case of an eight-year interlude before the brutal ax murder of three U. S. Army officers in Germany, allegedly by a captain who got an honorable discharge! . . . (2) A magazine article by a naval officer who says he had to sail for foreign duty with a requisition for important medical supplies unfilled and finally got a notice from Washington that his requisition had been typed single-spaced and couldn't be filled until sent in double-spaced! ! !

With two pretty gaggy, anything-for-a-laugh big-time comedy acts going on at the same hour, how refreshing Mister Peep's wedding seemed to the living rooms of America! . . . Done with deepest spiritual beauty, it was the Sunday night novelty of the decade.

Kerr Tells DeMoley Of Value Of Education

Supt. of School E. S. Kerr warned members of Salem Chapter, Order of DeMoley that "there are those who would get no bigger thrill than tearing down what this country has built up in 150 years," when he addressed the chapter at the Masonic Temple Thursday night.

Kerr cited the fact that through the years, there always have been enemies of free thinking peoples, and those enemies were never greater than right now, he said.

"No country can be free without educated citizens," he remarked, "and compulsory education is what makes the United States so superior."

Kerr also told the boys that education is adjusting oneself to surroundings and that thinking is learning how to solve problems. He stressed that the person who gets ahead is the one who has learned how to think and has learned how and where to obtain information.

The address highlighted the chapter's Obligatory Day on "Education and the Public Schools."

"It is time to do some straight thinking about the wondrous and fearful age through which we are living," Tomlinson told the graduates. "We are mentally paralyzed by our apprehension of the colossal engines of doom the genius of man has fashioned, and we dwell in mortal terror of the day they may be turned against us."

Tomlinson said we should not fear the deadly weapons in the hands of men but rather the deadly ideas in the minds of men because they are the source and inspiration of human catastrophe.

"It was the tragic idea of Hitler that tyranny was the epitome of strength and that self-government was a flabby thing," Tomlinson continued. "The remains of Adolf Hitler are now mingled with the charred ruins of the Reichs Chancellery in East Berlin. But his ill-starred idea carries on. It is the same doctrine of human degradation that the rulers of the Kremlin, by intrigue and conspiracy, would impose upon the world."

He added that the only solution to this predicament was the elimination of circumstances which give birth to such ideas. "Ignorance, hate, poverty and disease are the conditions under which such distortions of man's thinking become hazards to his progress."

If, as the Duke of Wellington is reported to have said, the Battle of Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton, then, Dr. Tomlinson concluded, "The outcome of the struggle of these times is now being determined in the halls of learning and of worship of colleges like this."

Kerr Tells DeMoley Of Value Of Education

Supt. of School E. S. Kerr warned members of Salem Chapter, Order of DeMoley that "there are those who would get no bigger thrill than tearing down what this country has built up in 150 years," when he addressed the chapter at the Masonic Temple Thursday night.

Kerr cited the fact that through the years, there always have been enemies of free thinking peoples, and those enemies were never greater than right now, he said.

"No country can be free without educated citizens," he remarked, "and compulsory education is what makes the United States so superior."

Kerr also told the boys that education is adjusting oneself to surroundings and that thinking is learning how to solve problems. He stressed that the person who gets ahead is the one who has learned how to think and has learned how and where to obtain information.

3 Veterans' Houses To Go On Public Sale

Three veterans' houses in Radio Heights addition will be offered for public sale June 23 at 2 p.m. by the Columbian County Commissioners.

The four-room homes were among 13 built in Columbian County with $78,279.73 received by the board of commissioners from the state in 1946.

The Ohio legislature set aside $6,000,000 in August, 1946 to provide temporary emergency housing for veterans of World War II and their families.

Since an emergency housing problem does not now exist and to cut down on county expenses, the board voted to sell the real estate.

Commissioner Galen Greenisen, said two houses are now empty and one is occupied by C. O. Deshler and his family. The Deshlers have been advised of the pending sale of the property, Greenisen said.

Two other veterans' houses were sold in 1951, one for $3,900 and another for $4,100.

Other houses are located in Lisbon, New Waterford and in other Columbian towns.

Area Woman Bound Over To Grand Jury

A Salineville woman, who was originally scheduled for the April grand jury on an assault and battery charge, has been bound over to the September grand jury by Justice of the Peace Hugh Ramsey of Lisbon.

Burbick, in his early eighties, claims the former WAC grabbed him by the neck and shook him near their neighboring homes last year.

Mrs. Gritton fired the first volley in the dispute, charging last November that Burbick alarmed her with his strange noises and motions.

Then Mayor Karl Lindner of Salineville placed the elderly man under $200 peace bond for 15 months.

Inside Labor

The news is that in St. Louis the faith placed in them by those regional leaders of the Teamsters — the world's largest and most powerful union — have just been indicted by a federal grand jury.

The charges include a failure to report some $450,000 in income and expenditures to the U. S. Department of Labor under an obscure and almost forgotten section of the Taft-Hartley law. Action under this clause is unprecedented. There are also indictments for alleged shakedowns and violence.

Since an emergencyousing problem does not now exist and to cut down on county expenses, the board voted to sell the real estate.

Commissioner Galen Greenisen, said two houses are now empty and one is occupied by C. O. Deshler and his family. The Deshlers have been advised of the pending sale of the property, Greenisen said.

Two other veterans' houses were sold in 1951, one for $3,900 and another for $4,100.

Other houses are located in Lisbon, New Waterford and in other Columbian towns.

Victor Riesel

"Some of our people have made mistakes. We are of the human family . . . If there is anything wrong with the welfare and insurance programs of our local unions in any state in the U. S., we beg and plead with the insurance commissioners to go in and investigate it."

If there is any proof of labor racketeering, I recommend the district attorney or the prosecuting attorney go in and seek an indictment, but give the accused and every other man the right to have his counsel of defense; his opportunity to cross-examine . . ."

But THEN BECK, too, charges that most of the investigations are simply publicity gimmicks and "politics."

What these politically and industrially powerful men, such as Beck and Hoffa, somehow don't see in their anger at the sudden burst of investigations of their union — is that theirs is the world's largest union, with over $300,000 members. And that at the Chicago conference Beck said that he would spend 5 million dollars by 1957 for further organization; so the union may soon have 2,000,000 members or more. And that Hoffa alone is the leader of all unionized men in motor transport throughout the central U. S.

It is no secret that he is the dominant figure in the Teamsters' southern conference covering 10 southern states. That's a good chunk of this nation. That's real power.

It must be above all suspicion. It must be clean. There is no plot anywhere. There is only fear of those who would exploit such power.

Some issues raised by Gromyko were new. Others had been brought up previously by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, but apparently withdrawn in the face of Western opposition.

Western experts were astonished to find these points raised at what was supposed to be a working group charged merely with finding a common ground among the different proposals before the conference.

The West again rejected the Russian amendments and the first meeting of the experts broke up without agreement.

ROUSING STRAINS of "Oklahoma!" are sweeping across Europe as a company of young opera singers from America present programs of folk and operetta music. # Area Cindermen Fare Badly At Columbus Track Finals

Some District Men Eliminated; More Action Is Slated Today; Barberton's 'Jeep' Davis Stars

COLUMBUS — Salem area cindermen competing in the Ohio High School Track and Field finals at Columbus this weekend had a tough day in preliminary rounds yesterday at Ohio State University.

None of the runners from Salem, Columbiana and Linton who were slated to run yesterday made it into today's finals.

Both Salem relay squads were eliminated Friday afternoon.

Salem's three remaining entries, high jumper Jack Alexander, miler Jerry Martin and shot putter Dan Kendzierski, are slated for action today.

Judging from the marks posted in the various district meets throughout the state, Kendzierski will have to better 50-feet win plenty to spare to score. He was slated to see his first action at

Jackson Defeats Charley Norkus

NEW YORK (AP) — Hurricane Tom Jackson will be offered a July 21 Madison Square Garden date with Nino Valdes, Coley Wallace or James J. Parker after his fifth round technical knockout victory over blood-spattered Charley Norkus.

Sammy Golden, one of the Hurricane's co-managers, will insist on Valdes, the hulking Cuban who is the second ranking challenger to heavyweight champ Rocky Marciano.

The Hurricane, upset by "Spoiler" Jimmy Slade in his previous start, was slow to blow up a storm last night at the Garden. He was cautious, like a man driving a car the first time after an accident.

Once he started to rip and tear in the third, fourth and fifth Jackson looked more like his old self. Norkus bled from cuts over both eyes from the second round on and reeled from Jackson's left hooks and short right hand punches in the fourth and fifth before Referee Al Bell called a halt at 2:29 of the fifth. The crowd of 4,139 that paid $13,205 approved.

Dr. Vincent Nardiello of the New York State Athletic Commission said he would have to take six stitches in each of two cuts over Jackson's eyes. Norkus preferred to have his eye stitching done later.

Jackson weighed 192½ to Norkus' 194 pounds.

Bettie Stouffer Bedford Track Queen

Bettie Ruth Stouffer, a senior at Bedford High School and formerly of Salem, reigned as queen of the Bedford track meet last week.

She presented trophies to the winners of the track meet with Brush High.

Bettie, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Clayton R. Stouffer of Bedford, will be graduated June 10 from Bedford High. She was a president of the cheerleaders of the cheerleaders this year and attendant to the school annual queen. She also was a member of the Council on World Affairs and the Student Council and sang with the a cappella choir.

Polo Team To Open Year With 2 Games

The Salem Polo club is primed and ready for action this weekend as their 1954 season is officially inaugurated with a Memorial Day double-header at the Salem Ellsworth Ave. Field.

The veteran-loaded Columbus Harbor Hills outfit will be here for 3 p.m. tussles tomorrow and Memorial Day afternoons. They will be paced by powerful Walt Schapler and former All-American grinder Al Holman, although the latter has been injury-plagued this spring.

The locals will feature Tony Sheen, Walt Pidgeon, Wilford Smith and Roy Bates in the starting lineup, along with a pair of newcomers, Lloyd Brunner and Harry Frick.

A large crowd is expected on hand both days.

Racing Fans Gather At Indianapolis Track

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The advance guard of the world's most patient sports crowd camped today at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway's 10 gates, with two days to kill before the 38th annual 50-mile auto race.

Dust-covered cars from coast to coast steadily fell into line for Monday morning's dash after choice parking spots in the track infil.

This annual gathering of speed lovers looks like self-imposed misery to non-members of the fraternity but the blue-jeaned swarm seems to enjoy itself.

Paul & Joe's Beat Goshen

Amvets Defeated By Red Caps 10-8

Only two games were played in the city softball leagues last night at Kelley Field. Paul and Joe's blasted Goshen 10-0 while, in a girls' contest, the Red Caps edged the Amvets 10-8.

Winning hurler Don Fife coasted to an easy two-hit shutout after his teammates pounded the losers for eight runs in the top of the first. Fife struck out nine men.

Jor Carmello led the hitting attack with three safeties while every player on the Paul and Joe outfit scored at least one run.

In the girls' division, a wild seven-run sixth inning, in which the Red Caps banged out three hits and received seven walks, brought the winners from behind to take the decision.

May led the winners with three hits, while Connie Gillette and Jan Reeder smacked home runs for the Amvets.

Play will resume again in the city leagues Tuesday evening.
